

2017 Health Law Professors Conference Sponsors

American Society of Law, Medicine & Ethics (ASLME)

Where Multidisciplinary Education Improves Practice®

ASLME is a non-profit multidisciplinary educational association whose mission is to provide high-quality scholarship, debate, and critical thought for the community of professionals at the intersection of law, medicine, health care, policy, and ethics. ASLME provides a dynamic forum for its members to engage in a valuable exchange of ideas from a wide range of perspectives. ASLME achieves this goal through two nationally acclaimed journals, the American Journal of Law and Medicine and the Journal of Law, Medicine & Ethics, and by holding national symposia on topics of interest to its membership. ASLME is located in Boston, Massachusetts. Please visit www.aslme.org for more information.

Georgia State University College of Law

At Georgia State Law, you don't just learn the law, you practice it

Located in the heart of downtown Atlanta, Georgia State University College of Law provides an outstanding legal education in an urban setting. The Georgia State Law community is diverse in thought and background, expanding students' understanding of varied cultural perspectives and the world. Surrounded by business, government, nonprofit and cultural organizations, Georgia State Law provides an ideal environment for practical experience and engaging in interdisciplinary research and collaboration. Lead by an accomplished faculty, Georgia State Law offers six clinics, numerous externships, practice-based and simulation courses, six academic and outreach centers, three certificates, nine dual degree programs, and an LL.M. With a top-ranked health law program and recognition as a best value law school, Georgia State Law continues to set standards of excellence.

Center for Law, Health & Society

Working with the law to promote society's health

The Center for Law, Health & Society at Georgia State University College of Law, established in 2004, has been consistently ranked among our nation's top 10 health law programs over the last decade. We have grown to 12 full time faculty, plus affiliates and academic professionals, whose teaching and research span the health law field, including health and business regulation, public and environmental health, health equity and social justice, bioethics and legal medicine, and health sciences and technology. Our students benefit from an extensive health law curriculum, including the nationally-recognized in-house Health Law Partnership (HeLP) Legal Services Clinic, more than 20 courses and externships, dual-degree programs, J.D. health law certificate program, and new post J.D. certificate and LL.M. programs in health law. The center continuously hosts our graduates and the greater health law community with cutting-edge public events and diverse outreach activities.