

Membership Information & Application

Since 1911, ASLME has been providing multiple forums for scholars and practitioners of medicine, law, and ethics. ASLME gives health lawyers, physicians, nurses, academics, bioethicists, and philosophers an opportunity to learn about new issues, reconsider old ones, and discover different points of view to common problems.

ASLME provides our members with opportunities to:

Enhance and expand their knowledge with subscriptions to our two nationally acclaimed peer reviewed journals: the Journal of Law, Medicine & Ethics (JLME) and the American Journal of Law & Medicine (AJLM). JLME focuses on research at the intersection of law, health policy, ethics, and medicine. Recent issues have focused on issues such as concussions and sports, the pharmaceutical industry, and disability law. AJLM is the country's leading health law journal devoted exclusively to the analysis of issues at the nexus of law and medicine.

Network and make connections with discounted registration rates for ASLME sponsored conferences, many of which offer continuing education credits, on the key issues of the day. Past conferences include ASLME's Annual Health Law Professors Conference, conflicts of interest in medicine, effective pain management, and public health concerns.

Read and share news through our new monthly e-newsletter, the ASLME Insider. The Insider brings readers all the latest news in health law, medicine, ethics, public policy, public health, and all of the related disciplines that ASLME covers in its role as the most important multidisciplinary meeting ground in the health law world. Members receive each issue and can include their announcements free of charge and post jobs at a discounted rate.
